Serengeti Explorer offers more than just an accommodation experience...

In 1930, a region spanning 2,286 square kilometers was designated as a game reserve within the present day southern and eastern Serengeti. This area permitted sport hunting endeavors until the year 1937, after which it stopped all hunting activities. In 1940 Protected Area Status was conferred to the area and the National Park itself was established in 1951

Serengeti National Park was one of the first sites listed as a World Heritage Site when United Nations delegates met in Stockholm in 1981. Already by the late 1950s, this area had been recognized as a unique ecosystem, providing us with many insights into how the natural world functions and showing us how dynamic ecosystems really are Perhaps it's the echoing call of the lions that beckons you, leading you to the Serengeti for one of the planet's most concentrated populations of predators. Astonishingly, these herds sustain around 7,500 hyenas, 3,000 lions, and 250 cheetahs.

Day 10: Back to Arusha & Journey Home
